Highland National Golf Course

Highland National Golf Course is a renovated upscale municipal golf course which reopened in spring of 2005, after two years of construction. This course is longer and more challenging than before with a good variety of hole layouts framed by mature trees. Highland National offers the amenities of the modern course with the feel for a grand old traditional City course. This is an 18-hole, 3200-6600 yard, par 72 course with a 71.2 rating. Highland's "signature hole," the 15th, features a large "Snoopy" shaped bunker constructed with the permission of Mrs. Jean Schultz in honor of her late husband, Charles Schultz, who learned to play golf here.

Course Hours

The Highland National Golf Course is open from dawn to dusk on weekdays, weekends and holidays during prime season (June, July and August). Hours may be reduced during the spring and fall.
